Theory and measurement of the soliton self-frequency shift and efficiency in optical microcavities: publisher’s note

Xu Yi,† Qi-Fan Yang,† Ki Youl Yang, and Kerry Vahala*

T. J. Watson Laboratory of Applied Physics, California Institute of Technology, Pasadena, California 91125, USA
*Corresponding author: vahala@caltech.edu

Received 22 July 2016; posted 22 July 2016 (Doc. ID 272284); published 3 August 2016

This note points out two corrections that were omitted from the published version of the article [Opt. Lett. 41, 3419 (2016)]. © 2016 Optical Society of America

OCIS codes: (140.3945) Microcavities; (190.5650) Raman effect; (190.7110) Ultrafast nonlinear optics.

http://dx.doi.org/10.1364/OL.41.003722

In Ref. [1], corrections to the text on p. 3420, six lines above Eq. (1), and p. 3421, in the line below Eq. (15), were omitted from the published version of the article. The article was corrected online on 19 July 2016.

†These authors contributed equally.

REFERENCE